

REPORT

I used java language to implement kmeans algorithm. For the given input point values I got output as centroids and different clusters. Here I attached graph for this implementation.

Here in the graph shows the details of the points, clusters and centroids.

Each cluster and all centroids are represented with separate colors.